31 years Older Than the Dominion of Canada

As the name implies, the Bank of British North America was established long before the Provinces united and became the Dominion of Canada. The sound, progressive management which has made it a power in Canadian finance makes it the bank for your account.

At the annual conference of Canadian Clubs, held in Winnipeg last summer, Mr. W. S. Carter, M.A., LL.D., was elected president of the Association for all Canada. The chief aim of the great speech-after-luncheon movement, founded by Charles McCullough, in Hamilton, in 1892, is to teach true Canadian nationalism. As a school teacher starting humbly down in New Brunswick, and climbing until in 1909 he became Superintendent of Education for the Province, Dr. Carter has probably had more experience elucidating eloquently the virtues of Canadianism, than many of the business men who belong to the Canadian Club, and have not encountered Young Canada in the raw as he has. School teachers and university professors are too infrequently called to identify themselves officially with broad national movements in this country. This is not so in France and Germany and other European countries where pedagogues some times lead revolutions and are made heroes of novels.

ter has probably had more experience elucidating eloquently the virtues of Canadianism, than many of the business men who belong to the Canadian Club, and have not encountered Young Canada in the raw as he has. School teachers and university professors are too infrequently called to identify themselves officially with broad national movements in this country. This is not so in France and Germany and other European countries where pedagogues some times lead revolutions and are made heroes of novels. As head of the Association of Canadian Clubs, he will have an opportunity to organize public opinion in a quiet but effective way. The Association represents all the Canadian clubs of the Dominion, but has no power over them, either in administration or in legislation. Its chief business is to unify opinion and experience in Canadian club work, to help the weaker clubs, and to assist in founding new clubs. Its influence is thus incidental, but none the less important.

FORT FRASER

Fifteen hundred people buy Fort Fraser town lots. Included in the list are bankers, professional and business men who are shrewd and successful buyers.

Now that this question is settled for all time by the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners, Fort Fraser is the Greatest Townsite for immediate large profits ever placed upon the market in British Columbia.

In the face of all opposition by the Grand Trunk, Fort Fraser will have good railroad accommodation. Lots today can be secured at one tenth the cost that will be demanded a short time from now. Another rise will come quick and great profits will be made, equal to any ever made in Western Canada.

Prisoners of Parliament.

Not everyone is aware that the British Houses of Parliament have their own prison. Yet situated high up in the Clock Tower is the M.P.'s prison, consisting of six rooms—four bedrooms and two sitting-rooms. The honorable member who has been dishonored by imprisonment for a breach of Parliamentary etiquette does not have such a very hard life in St. Stephen's prison. The prisoner's meals are sent up to him from the House of Commons' kitchens, and he can choose whatever dishes he likes from the ordinary menu. Unlike an ordinary prisoner, he receives the bill for his meals from the catering authorities! Perhaps the best-remembered occupant of Parliament's prison was Mr. Bradlaugh, who was sentenced by Mr. Speaker to imprisonment in the Clock Tower for refusing to withdraw when requested so to do. Offenders against Parliament other than members have before now been sentenced to imprisonment in the Clock Tower. These "outsiders" have included several public speakers and the editor of a prominent newspaper.

To Protect Jewels.

The Duchess of Marlborough has now installed a band of detectives at Sunderland House, her residence in Mayfair, to guard her treasures. Six ex-Scotland Yard men are now employed—three for day and three for night duty. Although the mansion is fitted with the most finished and expensive system of burglar alarms, the duchess recently developed a state of nervousness that produced insomnia and was undermining her health. She commenced to carry about all her most valuable jewelry, whenever she went abroad, but when it was pointed out to her that this was a dangerous proceeding, she decided to adopt the detective scheme of protection. This little enterprise will cost her at least $5,000 a year, but she thinks it is money well spent. The detectives parade the corridors all day and night, while one man keeps a watchful eye on strange visitors. Servants, too, are kept under observation, for recent cases have shown they are often in league with thieves.

Awful Rot.

An entertaining story is told by Mr. Robert Hichens of the time when he used to write lyrics for music. One of his songs, "A Kiss and Good-Bye," was to be sung by Madame Patti in the Albert Hall. In the pride of his heart the young author, who took a seat in the stalls, was much uplifted by the enthusiastic applause that followed the song. His delight was suddenly checked, however, by two voices from the seats immediately behind him. "What a lovely song that was," one exclaimed, rapturously. "Yes," the other grudgingly agreed, "but what awful rot the words of these songs always are."
