Diversion and Use

TAKE NOTICE that H. R. Furler, whose address is Barkerville, B.C., will apply for a licence to take and use 10 cubic feet per second of water out of Antier Creek, which flows Northerly and drains into Bear Lake.

The water will be diverted at a point about the West end line of Placer Lease No. 2910, into old ditch, and will be used for hydraulic mining purposes upon the Placer Claim described as Cat's Paw Placer Claim, on Cunningham Creek.

This notice was posted on the ground on the 29th day of March, 1935.

A copy of this notice and an application pursuant thereto and to the "Water Act" will be filed in the office of the Water Recorder at Barkerville, B.C.

Objections to the application may be filed with the said Water Recorder or with the Comptroller of Water Rights, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C., within thirty days after the first appearance of this notice in a local newspaper.

The date of the first publication of this notice is April 13th, 1935.

The Week's Work in Canada's Parliament

It has not taken long for Prime Minister R. B. Bennett to make his presence felt since he resumed his seat in the House of Commons on May 20.

With his old vigor restored he has thrown himself into the business of Parliament. Hardly had the cheering and the shouting that greeted his return ceased to echo around the Commons Chamber before Mr. Bennett was in the thick of debate, speaking with all his customary forcefulness. It was his fighting answer to the doubting Thomases who unceasingly during his illness and during his subsequent trip to London wielded deft pens to convey the impression through the press that Mr. Bennett's career as a public man and a statesman was at an end.

Mr. Bennett is still very much the Government leader. That much he conveyed in answering the felicitations from all sides of the House on his return. He will carry on, medical advice to take a little more rest notwithstanding. Probably he will not attempt the same volume of administrative duties as formerly, leaving more to his cabinet colleagues. But the first two days in the House since his return have revealed little disposition on his part to do so as yet.

Yesterday he disclosed the legislative program which faces the House in its last weeks before dissolution. Presently debating the contentious $33,000,000 public works construction bill, the memos still have to consider seven or eight bills arising from the price spreads commission's findings; legislation on housing and slum clearance, regarding which the amount of money involved has not yet been announced; the resolution standing in the name of Premier Bennett to establish a Canadian grain board, respecting which Mr. Bennett said yesterday (May 21) that "when other more pressing business is disposed of that will be dealt with in due course." Not mentioned by the Government leader is the future of radio in Canada, which must be dealt with before the House rises.

Difficulties with Japan regarding trade, particularly as to the effect of that country's depreciated currency on Canadian tariffs against Japanese goods, will also be made the subject of legislation, Mr. Bennett stated. The Government is giving the most careful consideration to this measure, not only because of the Japanese situation but because of trade relations with other countries whose currencies may be depreciated. An earnest effort is being made to arrive at an adjustment that will be fair and just to Canadian enterprise while at the same time not being unfair to trade between Canada and Japan, Mr. Bennett asserted.

Of considerable significance because of its effect on the tax paying public was Mr. Bennett's sharp rebuke to Liberal Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario. Ontario's action in repudiating contracts between Quebec power companies and the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission had completely destroyed Canada's credit in London. The Dominion government has been prepared to make a conversion loan of 28,000,000 pounds sterling in Canadian government bonds maturing in Britain, Mr. Bennett told the House, but this had to be abandoned because of Mr. Hepburn's action. Thus a saving of interest charges of $700,000 a year for the next 20 years had been denied Canadian taxpayers. A contributory factor to this condition had been the efforts of Vancouver's Liberal mayor, Gerry McGeer, to secure a reduction of interest rates on that city's bonded indebtedness.

Meanwhile the House still debates the public works construction bill. The long Liberal filibuster against the million-dollar tunnel between Toronto and Haman's Island ended yesterday when the item was passed but another snag with struck in the $2,500,000 provided for harbors and rivers. Angry cross-fire and uncomplimentary personalities were indulged in when the Liberals were accused of blocking the bill and delaying the putting to work many thousands of unemployed men. The bill is moving slowly through committee stage at this writing.

If men's nightshirts are to stop at the elbow, as a fashion expert advocates, what is to become of the good old custom of writing it on the cuff?—Sacramento Bee.

We Canadians are a patient people. We elect the best men, offering to pay them well to run the country then, immediately they are installed in office, we sit quiet and let every loud-mouthed foreign agitator below his headache all over the land as he snarls and bites the hand that feeds him.—Enderby Commoner.

Prosperity may gain friends for a man, but its adversity that tries them.

FARM JOTTINGS

TRADE AGREEMENTS WITH CANADA

"Facing a condition during the next fifteen months that is tantamount to starvation, the United States still withholds action on a reciprocal trade agreement with Canada that would release this country's abundant reserves."

This is the pointed comment of Thomas Wayland who writes in Liberty Magazine in conjunction with Charles V. Burkett, noted agricultural authority, who, writes in Liberty, sees many Americans in the low wage class facing actual starvation as a result of the drought and the United States curtailment programme.

Mr. Burkett's statement, "People can starve just as readily by eating improper food as they can by not having enough food," draws the belief from Mr. Wayland that "red tape and tariff barriers are doing a great injustice in both countries, when Canada stands ready to supply fruits, meats, dairy products and vegetables."

According to Mr. Burkett, who takes his figures from a bulletin issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, every person needs 1800 pounds of food a year. On this basis the United States production of foodstuffs in 1929 was 17 per cent less than needed.

"Yet in 1930, a year later, the American tariff went into effect and Canadian food exports to that country went steadily down. From $22,000,000 in 1930 it dropped to $2,000,000 in 1934," Mr. Wayland writes.

WOMEN IN AGRICULTURE

There are 212 women farmers' clubs in the Province of Quebec, with a membership of 8,887. Membership in poultry clubs accounts for 5,603 women who have 236,534 birds. Nearly a million and a half dozen eggs were produced by these birds of which more than 818,000 dozen were sold. Almost 7,000 of the members are also engaged in horticulture; over 5,300 are spinners and nearly 5,000 are weavers. These multifarious duties do not nearly exhaust the activities of the women farmers, for 3,255 of the club members kept 27,717 sheep with an annual output of 137,843 pounds of wool. Women farmers growing flax numbered 1,100, producing over 78,000 pounds of flax. Five thousand nine hundred and forty-seven of the women are also engaged in canning, 111 of their number specializing as can sealers. The total value of the canned products they made during the year ended June 30, 1934, was $185,569. Four hundred and fifty-three of the women are bee keepers, attending to 2,888 hives. The value of the linen work made by these women farmers within a year was $104,993. In addition to their ordinary work, 2,740 of the women farmers kept accounts, and it would appear that these busy women spend their spare time reading the 4,222 volumes and 6,762 pamphlets contained in 105 libraries of the various clubs.

SUMMER COTTAGE PRECAUTION

In re-opening summer cottages or any building that has been disused for a time, it will be found a good plan before occupation to spray the floors with a good pyrethrum-kerosene mixture, which can be chosen from among the several effective brands on the market. This is all the more commendable where pet dogs and cats have been kept. However well these pets have been looked after they are afflicted one time or another with fleas, and in temporarily vacant houses undisturbed by cleaning activities, fleas multiply rapidly, so that when the occupants of the house return they meet with a lively reception. Most complaints on this score naturally occur in the late summer on return from the summer vacation, but a precautionary spray on re-opening the house is often very necessary, particularly where homes are liable to be invaded by bird mites, clover mites, centipedes and other like pests.

Van Winkle Awakens

Early this week Stanley (or officially known as Van Winkle owing to the post office being known by that name) experienced another boom of short duration.

Two prospectors, while crevacing about two miles or so up Lightning Creek, found a nugget weighing about half an ounce. It was the cause for much rejoicing. For a time it looked as though another boom had started. However, as a former resident of Stanley said, it was quite evident that the boom had not passed as yet. This did not slow down or effect the morale of the prospectors in any way.

The evening the nugget was brought in the crowd of mineral discoverers gathered in ancient, yet jovial fashion. Included in them was Joe (of Hurrah for Laurier fame) but without the broom torch. Joe was an ardent supporter of the Liberal Party last election. In an interview a few days ago we reminded him of this fact. His reply was: "I am working like hell for the Liberal Party, and not a job on the road since. No more 'Hurrah for Laurier,' I am C. C. now."

As the party of gold searchers left again for the scene of the discovery the next morning, although somewhat late owing to the disposal of the half ounce the night before, we heard the echo of a tenor soloist, "Where the River Shannon Flows," rendered by Joe C.C. With him were the members of the Alarm Club of Van Winkle.

Van Winkle has again awakened, and the boys have new vim and vigour in their search for gold. If half an ounce creates so much vim we wonder what 26 or 40 ounces would do?

It is predicted in that town that if any more nuggets of that size are found the Horseshoe Club will have to abandon their shoe-throwing on the banks of Lightning Creek each evening.

GOLD PRODUCTION IS SHOWING GREAT INCREASE

Considerable gain was shown in gold production in the three months ended March 31st, when it amounted to 717,470 ounces, compared with 703,535 ounces in the same period last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports. Gold produced in March totalled 249,479 ounces as against 249,310 ounces in the same month last year.

Ontario led the provinces in the production during March with 174,096 ounces, Quebec next with 34,415 ounces, and our own province third with 28,019 ounces. Manitoba and Saskatchewan produced 12,266 ounces, while the output from Nova Scotia, the Yukon and Alberta amounted to 683 ounces.

Jewelry and scrap at the Mint in March totalled 3,533 ounces, and the total gold content of these receipts for the three months ended March 31st totalled 11,983 ounces.

Gold averaged $35.40 in Canadian funds during March, and on this valuation the month's output was worth $8,831,557.

A NEWSPAPERMAN'S DREAM

Once upon a time there was a young two-fingered typewriter fella who believed he was a great newspaperman in the land. Believing this he also thought he should know everything that he could find out and record it with trimmings (as Winchell was once told: "Cut your rabble off, but keep your gangs working.")

He observed that people who indulge, or overindulge in liquid nourishment of the stronger-than-water variety, always seem to exhibit, besides the staggers, a great amount of vivacity, and in general seemed to get a great kick out of life, and also seemed to be very talkative.

This might bear investigating thought our writer fella; so one day he hid himself to the beverage dispensary (not the soft drink parlour) from whence a lot of these happy people seemed to be emerging. Getting inside he noticed a number of patrons, most of them acquaintances, and most of them with an arm bent and a glass of some luscious looking amber-colored fluid at the end of it.

After a while he noticed that two fingers in the air brought the equivalent number of glasses of this so-called BEER, and still later he was wishing for two extra hands with fingers.

By continued imbibing, he who thought he could never carry a tune discovered that he had a beautiful singing voice. Later on life took a rosy hue—he was floating along on air—beautiful females were all about him—he was in the newspaperman's paradise. He was reclining on a throne overlooking a great arena. On his right one of the beautiful women was taking care of a table on which was arrayed a large number of vessels mysteriously labelled "Gin," "Rum," "Whiskey," etc., and at his glance she would hold a glass of the desired concoction to his lips, thus saving cramp in his bending arm.

The arena was a stage where all the great events of the day were enacted for his benefit as soon as the special television sets showed the details: train wrecks, revolutions, robberies, etc. passed in review. The great reporter felt a tug at his leg and dimly heard a voice saying "Have a beer?" and he woke up with a head enlarged several times, and with a number of riveters inside competing for a speed record.

"I do not remember that in my whole life I ever wilfully misrepresented anything to anybody at any time."—J. P. Morgan.

"I say, 'talnt reely such a bad lot 'ere tonight, considerin' 55 of the village be takin' part in the performance." Sheffield Weekly Telegraph.

A poet says he writes because he simply cannot help it. Well, that is as good an excuse as any. —Humorist.

DEATH OF MRS. HANCE

General regret has been expressed at the death of Mrs. Nellie Hance-Regan of Hanceville, who passed away at the Williams Lake Hospital on Tuesday morning, following an illness which had extended over many weeks.

The funeral took place Thursday at Hanceville where interment was also made.

Mrs. Hance, it is said, was the first white woman to arrive in Chilliwack, her period of residence there covering forty-seven years. Her husband, who died in 1910, at the earlier period ran a store with a flour mill in connection, and had as a partner, Dr. English, who afterwards moved to Ashcroft.

Later Mrs. Hance married again and in addition to her present husband she leaves three sons, Grover Percy and Ren, and one daughter Mrs. Frank Witte, of Big Creek Judd, another son, died about six or seven years ago.

Coupled with her long residence at Hanceville, the deceased will be long remembered for her unbounded hospitality. She had a kindly and generous disposition, and the general regret felt at her departure no less than the sympathy expressed for the family's sufficient testimony to a life spent in promoting the welfare and happiness of others.—Williams Lake Tribune.

KING MINING CO. TO CEASE OPERATIONS

The King Mining Co., of Vancouver, is ceasing operations for the time being, their ground on the Quesnel River being too deep for their machinery to handle. They intend moving the outfit into town. It is hoped to procure ground suitable for their rig.

Mrs. Johnson, A. Morrison and Fred Jacobie of Likely and Hydraulic were in town during the week.

F. W. Cunningham, general manager for Westminster and district of the Western Canada Insurance Co. was in town for a couple of days, accompanied by J. Scothorn. They have gone to the Wells and Barkerville area.

There was a mild runaway of a team along Carson and Front streets this morning. A heavy team of white horses were startled by a dog and bolted. A lady and two small children were in the wagon at the time. The horses were stopped on Front Street before any damage could be done.

A real old timer in the person of Harry Eden of Stanley visited Quesnel this week for the first time in many years. In fact, some say it is in the neighborhood of a quarter of a century since Harry was last here. Now in his 81st year, Harry spent most of his time as a prospector on Lightning Creek. Last year he had the misfortune to have his cabin destroyed by fire, but a generous whip round amongst old friends in Stanley, Barkerville and Quesnel provided a new furnished cabin for him. One of these days we intend to get hold of Harry, hog-tie him and make him tell us some of the stories of the old days in the Cariboo. He has a fund of good yarns but is hard to get started.

STUPID

(Butterfield in The Daily Province)
The first article in the current issue of Liberty—famous United States medium for the dissemination of the true light—is devoted to a long wall about the amount of money, running to billions, that leaves that land of the free and home of the brave every year for foreign sweepstakes and lotteries.

The writer takes the trouble to point out that while there are many of these roads to fortune that are bona fide gambles, there are also a great number of bona fide United States citizens getting rich upon the proceeds of fake schemes represented to be authentic.

All these kinds of walls always make me sick. There is no need to wall. All that is necessary is that the government of that country, and also, of course, by implication and imitation, of this country also, should start their own lotteries.

All that stops them is the traditional thought that the churches would not stand for it. It is about time that someone called this church bluff. There is not a member of Parliament who is personally repugnant to the idea of such sources of public income and private profit. But every member of Parliament is afraid that if he voted for such a sensible and human thing he would never be re-elected. Very well, if he is that kind of fellow it is better that he should not be re-elected.

If every candidate for re-election would have the honesty to say: "I am one hundred per cent for government sweeps and lotteries," the church would finally have to mind its own business and let nature take its course. They have to vote for someone, and if everyone of every political stripe were unanimous about that one point, common sense would triumph.

TEN LONG YEARS AGO

BORN—At the local hospital on Thursday, May 21st, 1925, to Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Moffat, Quesnel, a son.

Mrs. C. V. Johnston and children who have been visiting at the home of Col. and Mrs. M. V. Allen at Vernon for some weeks, arrived home on Tuesday last.

Owing to the high water in the Fraser last week, the railway cribbing at the foot of Red Buff was partly undermined and the trains are now coming to Dragon Siding until repairs are made. General Manager Kilpatrick and Divisional Engineer Livingstone were arrivals on this week's train and are keeping tabs on conditions along the line.

Mrs. Ewing and Mrs. Lamb left today for the East. Mrs. Ewing will visit for a few months in Kingston, Ont., before returning. Mrs. Lamb will go to New Bedford, Mass., and does not expect to be back for some time. They left by I. T. Stage.
